This tery pretty poetical episode is from the pen of Mr. R. H. Stoddard, a native poet, who has written a thousand somets, ballads, and songe, that entitle him to the laudalion of all-this genius is only surpassed by his modesty. A native of N. York, and a machinist, we understand, by occupation, he has been content to acquire honest time by not seeking it.

The letter was so unique that I felt as if a copy of it would be a curiosity, so I told him I would write it over for him in a plainer hand. I did so, and gave him the copy, reserving the original for him-self, and here it is:

"Madam, my indignation knows no bounds can scarcely hold my pen for anger. I just wish to inquire, madam, (and I choose to do it in writing) how you dare have the presumption to treat me in the brutish man-ner which you did on Sunday last! Do not your cheeks tingle with shame when you emember how you insulted me. You need not suppose that I am an old granny, who will be humbugged or bamboozled by such treatment. No, madam, I despise you and your conduct. You are not half civilized. and your behavior proves it. I will not put up with such abuses from one who is neither ossessed of a handsome face, a decent figure or common sense, and I write this to tell you that I spurn you, as I would a venomous

> [Now conclude with the Hyena.] To conclude this already lengthy epistle, let me tell you, that when I think what a fool you made of me on Sunday last, when I reflect what a grovelling, swinish mind and heart any female must possess, who would treat any gentleman as you have treated me; I feel as if I wish I had hold of you, and I would tear the false curls from your head, and place marks on your ugly face, which if possible, would make it worse than com--and that is useless. But it is an old saying that it takes all sorts to make a world.' I passed through the same writing the letter, and accidentally met my used by the peasanty in those parts. my quondam friend. He recognized me in a oment, and eagerly seizing my hand, and giving it a squeeze, which I did not soon forget, he exclaimed, 'My dear fellow, to you I owe my present happiness. I called the next Sunday night, we married in a fortnight and we have now the snuggest plantation. the fattest stock and two of the plumpest babies in all these diggins.

So it seems there was "never a Jack with out a Gill," and even so ridiculous, absurd and nonsensical a letter, as the one of which the above is a verbatim copy, found one person on whom it produced the desired effect.

MURDER BY MISTAKE. The following homely but interesting narrative is related in one of the English magazines. It proves that dreams are not always to be disregarded, and shows that there is sometimes a remarkable strong sympathetic connection between one's sleeping ideas and the wakeful motives of others:

"Five and twenty years ago, as I was returning home one evening from St. Cere, I was overtaken by a storm. I was on horse back; and my horse, alarmed at the hail and lightning, became restive, and refused to go a step in advance. I dismounted, and taking the reins, attempted to urge him forward, when fortunately I perceived lights shead. I proceeded towards them, and at length reached a miserable hovel.-Upon raising the latch, I discovered a man and a woman cowering over a wretched fire, emploved in weaving baskets .-- Good evening to you, my friends" I said in a dialect of the country; 'but sorry weather this.' The no power on earth can break. Call to mind worthy denizens of the hut cast on me looks beautiful grove by moonlight, and oh ! my room by their fire, assuring them I was wilaworn to love and protect you forever, you proceeded to throw a heap of faggots on the embers without the slightest ceremony. 'De you take us for inkeepers ? 'inquired the female, in a shrill angry tone. I took out my purse and gave her a five franc piece.

"The sight of the coin mollified her at what do you mean by attempting to brow- once. 'Ah! said the horrid old witch, " > sleeping apartment in that miserable abode "'Well, sir." said the woman, 'it would te a sad thing to go beyond the doors on such a night as this. We are but poor folks, and have no bed worthy of such a fine gen tleman; but if you don't mind going up there, (pointing to a ladder and a kind of garret,) at any rate you will be able to keep yourself dry.' " Somehow the woman's looks did no please me at all. However, there was no which we have spent together. Oh! my help for it, besides I was fresh from the army, beautiful girl, whose sylph like form and and no milksop; and so I climbed up acgraceful movements are the envy of your sex, cordingly, and gainded my loft forthwith. when I remember the day on which your I then stretched my cloak on the worm-caten boards that composed the floor, and in

" Strange enough, but I had scarce fallen asleep, when I must needs set to dreaming girl of my heart at my side, when on a sudden I perceived surging high above her head (Put it on thick.) And oh! my charming a face most grizzly to behold. It was the hovel .- She had a batchet in her hand, and made as though to strike me. I strove to rise and take flight, but in vain-my limbs refused their office. On my examining them more closely, I discovered they were severed at the joint. The change thus suddenly wrought in them had the effect of arousing me from my slumber, and dispelling the fearful vision. At any rate, wake up I did, and found myself still in the garret, with my head pillowed on my cloak. I bent my head to listen if I could hear aught, but save the howling of the storm, all was silent -- Somehow or other, I could not rid myself of the painful impression occasioned by my dream. It struck me to indulge in a peep through one of the many chinks of rotten worm-eaten boards, and accordingly I proceeded to take an observation of things that might be passing below. The man and his wife were still bending over the fire, but they had discontinued their work and were conversing in whispers.

> "I tell you there's more coin in that purse than you could earn during the rest of your lifetime,' said the female.

" We'll what then ?' said the man. "What then? Why, take it, to be sure Catch tight hold of his legs, and mind the rest of him follows them; then pitch him down the hole, and leave the rest to me, showing a mason's mallet in her hand.

" 'And when that's done, what's to become of him next? inquired her husband.

" Well, lay him down somewhere on road, and folks will think that he was killed by a fall from his horse,' and as she spoke ascending to the throne was to entirely replace two years and a half subsequent to she extinguished a sort of nondescript lamp

The fire was long since out, so I could see nothing. They continued to whisper, but in such low tones as to be utterly inaudible I trust I am not a greater coward than my neighbors; still I own I felt very much the reverse of comfortable. Be it remembered that I had not a single offensive weapon about me .-- For a moment I considered the notion of jumping down the trap door, and clearing the ladder at a single spring; but said ladder was very ricketty, and had I missed my footing, Heaven alone can tell what would have been the result, Moreover, I had but brief time for reflection for I suddenly felt a slight vibration at the trap door, which made me shudder from head to foot.

The man was climbing the ladder, and each round, as he mounted, creaked beneath his weight. By this time I had succeeded in raising myself noiselessly on my knees a the edge of the trap-door. With a thick beating heart, and eye, ear and limb to their utmost tension, there I waited in an agony of apprehension .- Suddenly, amid the darkness, a form appeared before me, and I felt its hand in contact with my person. I sprang to my feet, clutched the individual by the throat and hurled him backwards. His foot slipped, and he fell heavily from the ladder. "I have him safe!' exclaimed the woman; and at the same time I heard lhe sound of a by another blow, and then naught save the howling blast and pattering rain. With her own hands she had slain her husband ! "I had nerve enough to descend the lad der. It occurred to me that perhaps I might be able to work my way through the roof, and so I did. I found my horse at the place where I had made him fast, and proceeded forthwith to tell my story to the authorities. The female was brought to trial and sentenced to death; and as in those days there were no such things as circumstances in extenuation she was duly executed.

ABDUL MEDJID.

THE SULTAN OF THE OTTOMAN EMPIRE. Abdul Mediid was born on the 20th of April, 1824, and was but sixteen years of age when called to succeed his father, whose death was announced on the 1st of July 1839, though it is supposed that it occurred some days before. The ceremony of instal lation was performed on the 11th, when he was girded with the sword of Osman with all the ancient formalities. He is tall and well formed; his head is fine and regular his deportment graceful and noble; his auburn hair is always covered by a red callote similar to that worn by the meanest of his subjects: his eyes are of a grayish blue, soft and penetrating. His habitual costume is the military dress of his empire; a dark colored tunic, buttoned up to the neck; no warlike accoutrement except a sabre suspended at his side, and similar to that which every citizen may gird in the hour of danger no golden embroideries nor dazzling collars upon his habitual dress. The decorations which the Sultan confer have the form of a sort of gold medal, on which is engraved his signature, and the importance of which depends upon the number and value of the diamonds which surround it. The supreme mark of this kind, the most enviable decoration is the ministure portrait of the Sultan, surrounded by jewels, same that graced my gentle hostess of the and suspended by a gold chain; women may receive this decoration, which they wear attached to the left shoulder. Three Christian ladies possess it at this moment One of them, the Princess V-, lately rece ved this august present in Moldavia, in taken. presence of a young Turk in high office. who had been brought up near the person of Abdul Medjid, "Behold him," said he, in clining himself profoundly before his portrait " behold him! that master whom we revere, not because he is powerful, but because he is good? Never," added he, " has that angelic heart permitted a drop of blood to flow. either to extend or to secure his power; the life of others is so sacred in his eyes, that when it behooves him to pass sentence of death, even on a criminal, he takes refuge in the retirement of his apartment, secludes himself there, and becomes inacessible to all there he, in anguish, asks within himself i God can have given him the power to blot out forever a man from the number of the living." On his accession to the throne it becomes necessary for him, in accordance with the custom, to sacrifice a lamb; he refuses to do it. " If that is the price of the throne," said he, laughing, "I choose to a child, to the exercise of absolute power in an immense empire, his father bequeathed to bim the overwhelming burden of a country weakened by unfortunate wars and undermined by secret intrigues. His first step on organize the army, upon the best European model. With the utmost liberality, he grant ed to the Christian privileges and immunities he founded schools where Catholics, Greeks. Armenians, Jews and Musselmen live side by side, instructed each by the ministers of their respective religions; and attended each by persons of the same religious persuasion and the grateful Christians contributed the aid of their experience to all the reforms of the young sovereign. They assisted him to establish his schools; they organized his armies; they exercised his navy. Thus has been realized by the son, that great saying of the father, " I wish my subjects to be reorganized, the Musselmen only at the mos que, the Christian only at the church, the Jew only at the synagogue." In his reign taxes have been equalized, and the genera prosperity of the country much advanced by immigrations of the subjects of neighbor ing States, drawn to Turkey by the comfree government. In carrying out the new system of reform called Tanzimat, the present Sultan has encountered the most formi dable obstacles, both by rebellions at home and by ambitious tyrants of other countries who seek to despoil him of rich and valuable territory. The reform undertaken by the Sultan Mahmond, with the design of giving unity to the Ottoman Empire, and pursued with implacable will through fire and blood, has been continued with singular good heavy blow, then a piercing shriek, followed fortune by his successors, but by means quite different. The mere exercise of justice, tempered by a touching goodness, has sufficed to the Sultan Abdul Medjid for rallying around his throne all the diverse races subjected to him, and which a little while ago implored the succor of Europe. Reform has been pursued with unwearied ardor. The amelioration of the discipline, the equipment and the organization of the army, concession in favor of the establishment of railroads, and the creation of a bank, were about to place Turkey in a position to encounter force as well as civilization. Once entered into the family of European interests, she would have clouded all dangers by the transformation great deal more gospel in a loaf of broad To prevent this result, at any price, is the object of the attack now made upon her.

for civilization, and not for slavery.

The importance of the movement which from such a small beginning seems destined ere it ends to totally subvert the government of the Chinese Empire, can hardly be exaggerated. The fact that the rebels are not only striving to overthrow the present dynasty, to place their leader upon the throne. but are also waging a war of extermination against idolatry, and all the paraphernalia of its worship, to replace it with a system of religion, that, so far as can be ascertained, is Christianity adapted to Chinese comprehension, gives to this revolution a significance and importance that cannot be mis-

The history and social condition of this great people are but little understood by the shipping near at hand. The people mostly ivilized world, and it is time for those who burn charcoal; they are forbidden to cook have derived their ideas from the stereotyped with the hard coal, on account of the gas; cut in the geographies, in which an oblique eyed, mild looking individual, with shaven poll, lengthly queue, and the voluminous breeches, is represented hawking about "rats and puppies for pies," to turn to more reliable sources for information, particularly since the time seems to be rapidly approaching when we must study them as neighbors, and as adopted citizens even of our own country In the days of William de Rubruquis and Marco Polo the man who told a plain, unvarnished tale about China and the Chinese, was set down in the estimation of his fellows as an outrageous liar. Indeed, till within comparatively a short period, the whole vast area of the empire has been, with the exception of a narrow strip here and there on the borders and by the sea-coast, as much a great as the home of a peculiar people who have preserved their individuality and most minute traits of character, and remained at rest, during the centuries, while the rest of the world has been rocking with the struggles of expiring dynasties, and the throes of nations starting into existence.

In area the Chinese Empire is three imes larger than the United States, east of the prairies, and like it, it enjoys a variety of climate, raging from the heat of the tropics to the cold of the northern temperate zone Its surface is diversified by mountain ridges vast plains, and deep valleys, while in the number and magnitude of its rivers it is sur passed by no country on the globe. Within its territory are also found vast lakes both of fresh and salt water, which give subsistence to a large population, and upon whose surface a great internal commerce is car-

The main article of food is rice, the cultivation of which s universal, and conducted in the most economical manner, so as to insure the greatest yield from the seed; while the universal beverage of all classes, ranks and ages, is an nfusion of the leaves of the tea plant, whose leasantly stimulating effects have brought the whole world into tribute to this people

The government of China is an absolute onarchy, and filial obedience is the law of light of the father of his people, every command emanating from him is to be implicitly obeyed. The whole machinery of governnent is under his control, and with him rests the appointment of his successor, even to the exclusion of his own sons. The right of primogeniture, which formerly existed, was many years ago abolished, so that at the death of a parent his property is divided amongst his male children, the eldest son receiving two portions. Girls inherit nothing, neither do they receive any marriage ortion from their parents.

Of these the 1st includes the learned; 2nd the husbandmen: 3d, the manufacturers; and 4th; leisure, and reform, carried into all parts of the merchants. This may seem a strange classification, but as the husbandman provides food to keep the nation alive, he is honored and placed accordingly. Indeed, so strong is this feeling, that annually, at a great festival, it is the custom of the emperor to enter a field set apart for the occasion, and with his own hand plough a plot of ground.

THE JAPANESE EMPIRE.

We give an interesting account of the Jaanese Empire, which has been kindly furnished to us by Mr. Thomas Troy. He has had extensive facilities for gaining information on the subject, and has promised us a series of articles, which we shall from time strength and of their riches; they will increase to time lay before our readers:

The whole empire consists of sixty-six provinces. The island of Niphon contains fifty, Kow-shoo nine, Schoke five, Yezo one and Sa-dho one.

The city of Jeddo is in the province of Moo-sa-she. The chart points out eighthundred and eighty islands, including the our principal ones, some of which are rich in mineral productions. In the island Sa-dho there are rich gold mines, but no one is allowed to work them but the convicts whom the government sends there. They seldom live over three years; some are never allowed to see daylight. They work the mines like a railroad tunnel, under the mountains. where some have to spend their life-time without ever seeing the sun again.

On the east side of Kew-shoo there is an abundance of coal, and a good barbor for therefore the mines are not much attended to

In the island Ha-jay-jo she-ma, all the Emperor's clothing is made. He sends a vessel thore five times a year, to bring his rich cargo to Jeddo. Some of his junks are ornamented with gold plates on the side, and all round the bulwarks.

The most remarkable mountain is Foo-gsan, in the province Soo-roong-au; it is ten miles high, and the top is capped with snow nine or ten months of the year. In June and July it is visited by great numbers of people from Jeddo and different parts of the country; the people have a great many songs in praise of it and its traditions. It is regarded sacred, and no females are allowed to escend it.

The present Emperor is about twenty-one years of age; his title is Thin-Kaw, which enounce it."

The Sultan Abdul Medjid has conducted the present time. And yet it is a great emthe city of Jeddo; it is surrounded by a strong the administration of Turkey upon the poli-cy of his eminent father. Called, when yet its extent, great in its natural resources, and wall and outside the wall is a deep canal full of water : his arsenal is close to his palace built on a mound, where he retreats in case of war, which he is always afraid of. He keeps a strong life guard around him, and when he rides out, which is very seldom, he has ten or twelve of his ministers dressed in the same uniform with himself, so no person may know him, he is so much afraid of his own subjects.

When he passes through the city the peo le must kneel down and keep their faces to the ground until he is out of sight. They cannot even turn their heads to look at him They have to do the same with all his minis ters of state and public officers. The principal weapon of war in Japan is the sword which is large and very sharp. A good swordsman is supposed to be able to fend off ten arrows, shot at the same time, and he is thought to be able to cut a musket ball in two if he sees the man who is firing at him. Their use of the musket is as follows: It has no flint, but goes with a match which is attached to the stock. They hold the musket up to the left shoulder and support it with their left hand, while they touch off with the right. The people are not al lowed to keep fire arms in their houses.

RAPID EXECUTION OF MUSIC. - Dr. Larder, when recently commenting upon the speed of seventy miles per hour attained on the Great Western Railroad of England, remarked, that at that rate of speed, the engine " coughed" twenty times in a seconda number impossible for the ear to separate and distinguish. Now, under direction of a great leader, we have heard forty violins in the cods of an overture firmly attack a passage of groups of eight notes, and with lightthe land. The Emperor being viewed in the ning-like rapidity play them perfectly together, as if by one instrument, each note most distinctly appreciable by the ear. effect on the audience was electrical, exciting to the last degree. Public opinion here, made up from the Arctic's advicet, professes to believe in the certainty of an European war. This is at least plausible shether you take published documents or private letters as your guide. The Vienna note, presented by France, England and Austria, as the basis of agreement, has been so modified at the Porte, that there is small ground to believe it will receive the signature of the Czar. It now, indeed maintains the very same position claimed by Reschid Pacha in the early stage of the nereschid Pacha in the early stage of the de-gotiation and which caused the audden de-parture of Menschikoff from Constantinople. Female Schools in our District.

It was stated last week that another fen chool is to be established in our town as soon FRANCE.—It is rumored that the French as the necessary preliminaries will permit if we are not mistaken, will number a half dozen chools under the direction of accomplished female teachers. And if we reflect that only a few years have elapsed, since there was no permanent'school of this kind in the District, the present number will be regarded as indicating striking change in our social condition-

We have always looked upon prom chools as a most bungling arrangement, and we think there is a propriety worthy of attention in having academies exclusively for the improvement of the gentler sex, under the dijection to his reception as American Envoy, but if any passage in his address, on presenting his credentials, can be found fault with it will be seized as an opportunity to dismiss him. Mr. Soule, the writer adds, will at hos find his position a difficult one.

The Cale Rappess the Turkish Note.

Wa give the following important despatch from the London Lines, with a recommendation to receive with eaution whatever is published exclusively in that paper, and imwith a set of rude boys, the girl will, by con-tinual contact with their vulgar slang and swag. gerish mapner, have some of this coursenes emly blemish even upon the full bloom of womanhood. On the other hand, in our female schools, the little innocents are effectually guarded against every thing that can in any way mar the milduess and purity of their na ture; and the accomplishments of manner which truly give the "nameless charm" to woman' loveliness, are made the objects of special culture. In such schools, the Instructrees who performs faithfully the charge committed to her feels it to be as much her duty to teach the lit tle girl what is polite and decorous, as to teach that two and two make four or that table

These schools commend themselves, though on other and higher grounds. They adapt the advertion of the female to the particular cast of sphere in which she is to act. We have nothing to do here with the delicate question of the relative superiority and inferiority of the sexes; but we do insist that there is an original and radical difference in the structure of their minds, giving rise to a corresponding difference of mental taste and inclination. In proof of this, we would refer to the eesthetical tendency exhibited in the female and the practical utilitarian enirit of the male. These dif ferances manifest themselves too at a time which precludes the possibility of any bias from cultivation, and thus demonstrate most conclusively, that each sex has its peculiar characteristics of mind. If it be true then that there is such a difference pervading the whole mental conformation of the sexes, it is certainly important that there should be a corresponding adaptation in their education. The young lady should be instructed not only in the more substantial elements of education, which are necessary to both sexes; but also in the ornamental branches, which are pre-eminently suited to her own peculiar tastes. And thus the inherent beauty of her mind is developed and the perfections of her nature are drawn forth in all their charming fascination, while at the same time she is fitted for the sphere which she was designed to occupy and adorn. We hail this change then, as one of the brightest features of our social progress; because it but we fear to trespass longer. ladies, the advantages of such an education as tion by the Czar; especially should have ta-ken aground that emboldens him in his de-signs. For it is already mooted about that England and France will not stard by the Porte on this modification of the Vienna meager opportunities of an old-field grammar meager opportunities of an old-field grammar school. There, the mind of the girl was crammed with matter which would fit her for the position of a clerk in a counting house. But the interest and enthusiasm of her mind were never awakened to a living energy, by sympathetic converse with the richness and beauty that dwell in and animate the world of Nature around her; and the majesty of her charms, which makes her the solace of the domestic fireside and the safeguard as well as ornament of society, was weakened and suppressed by the appear in a honorable. But while the honest woman perseng with the veres in her honest toil, let her soul be cheered with the luxury of such thought and septration as are in harmony with the tenderness and purity of her nature. It is to be hoped that the change which has so prosperously commend will be encouraged and carried on. And when

The World's Temperance Convention.

The World's Temperance Convention recent y assembled in New York, may justly be numbered among the humbugs of the age. It object cannot redeem its character. Compose of undoubted friends of Temperance and a pie hald grew of Maine-Lawites, Abolitionists. strong minded women, Doctors of Divinity, So cialists and fanatics, the proceedings of the Convention were much in character with the bac el analian orgies, whose destruction was its

The Convention was scarce organized, ere Satan presented himself, in the shape of the Rev. Antoinette Brown: who claimed a seat pon the platform, and the right to speak as a delegate of the Convention Her appearance was was the signal for general uproar and confusion, in which all order and decency were forgotten. Amid the noise a vote was taken by which she was excluded from the Convention; - yet it is difficult to determine which was the most disgraceful, the cool impudence of the Rev. wonan and the fanaticism of her advocates, or the shouts, groans, hisses and rowdyism of her op-

It is unnecessary to review the entire pro ceedings of the Convention ; under the quieting nfluence of a strong body of policemen, order was maintained for a day or two, while a few resolutions were passed and as many speeches made laudatory of temperance - a very meager result, and falling far short of our just expectations. Indeed, the Convention was a miserable failure—promising much, realizing little. From its high sounding title, with delegates from England, the Continent, and from every clime and section of our own country, we had reason to expect, even to require, that so broadly based plan would be discussed and matured-some harmonious policy and concerted action be established, by which at least the moral and religious sentiments of the world would be united in the extension of the Temperance Reformation. But we have to regret that such was not the case, and so far as being productive of any beneficial results present prospective, the Convention might as well not ave met. It would have been better; for then patriotism would not have cause to blush at the thought, that an assemblage, philanthropic in its purpose, was disturbed by scenes which would disgrace the enclosures and inmates of a brothel.

The idea of the Convention was grand-th thought a noble one, that while in the great netropolis of the New World, was held an exposition of the industry of all nations," to which would throng the citizens of every clime, as to some grand levee of the arts and sci ences, there should be an assemblage which in certain degree would represent the benevo lence of the world and the age, and which would place upon the very outer walls the banhers of reform and hostility to a vice, which in varied forms moves to and fro like a weaver's shuttle, among the nations, finding its victims in all classes, ranks and conditions. The temperance reform has already acted no obscur part in the world's great drama. Its leaders and heroes and hanner bearers, have already accomplished much; upon their wisdom, prudence and vigor much yet depends—the past is clorious, the future will be much more so, if they are only true to the cause. They must be true. Coming generations demand at their hands the priceless patrimony of political insti tutions healthful, vigorous, and untouched by slavish and corrupting vices. It is well that this world-wide benevolence should find public expression; it thus comes home to the public heart, and meets with ready sympathy from the nations; and no nobler national influence can be exerted than that which springs from permanent and radical reform in the social state Old habits, and most of all, national ones, are most difficult to eradicate; but none are so fixed, so tenacious, as not to yield to enlightened public sentiment.

We hoped, then, much from the late Con vention, as the great disseminator of the moral sentiment of the world upon the subject of intemperance, in whatever form it may arise and we trusted that its proceedings and discussions would go forth to the world graced with dignity and decorum. It would have presented a sublime spectacle, when within her Crystat Palace industry was holding her court, and decking the brows of her toil-worn sons with laurels won in the peaceful strife of the mechanical arts, had there been as assembly of those who, bowing not to the golden calves of Commerce and forgetting all differen ces of section, of climate and of feeling, united in universal benevolence and philanthropy had acted cordially, harmoniously and energiand getically, for the welfare of mankind. Mucl substantial benefit could not have failed to resul from such an assembly. In connection with the Convention we pr posed to remark upon the presence of an "em nent Judge from South Curolina" in its midst prefer that Judge O'NEALL and his co-delegate from the South had not attended. We say this not in harshness; for we will not join in the cry against him or any other, for being led into errors not venial by the honest dictates of the heart. We regard Judge O'NEALL, as an enthusiast in the temperance cause; but no cause has a worthier object. But it is not necessary that we should defend the Judge. There are through the length and breadth of the State-in every District and Town, some, if not many, who owe to Judge O'NEALL, his teaching and example, their position in the State and in society. The State should regard him as a public benefactor .-Rome crowned her sons who saved the life of citizen, and we should not be so unmindful of her example as to censure him, who not simply saved the lives, but the character and honor of

"It is a fact," says the Bombay Gazette,

The Agricultural Association of the

The circular of the Executive Council of this sociation, relative to the proposed meeting at Columbia, in December next, has for some weeks past appeared in our columns; and we ow comply with the request to unite our efforts with the brethren of the press of the South, in the attempt to arouse the agricultural community to the importance of feeling and manifesting an interest in the subject.

The principle of association, powerful to what ever purpose directed, cannot fail when applied to the purposes of agricultural improvement, to achieve the most happy result. Let men decry Book Farming " as they may, and clamor for that which is practical ;-the very fact that the latter is more desirable involves the importance of associating together farmers of intelligence and practical experience. Could farming be learned from books, this would be less impor tant. As it is, it can only be through such associations - through the comparing of methods and results, the interchange of views and opinions, and the discussing of causes and effects-that men can liope to avail themselves of each others' experience, and accumulate that store of practical information which will enable them to achieve the most favorable results, without the cost of the repeated experiments and failures by which the experieuce of others may have been purchased.

It is not to be disguised that there exists in this State, at this time, a lamentable anothy or the subject of agricultural improvement; and of no section, we venture to say, is this more true than of our own District. Each has seemed content to plod his accustomed way, scarce stopping to ask as to his neighbor's progress, much ess to inquire whether time has not developed new and more successful methods than those to which he has been used. There are habits in farming, as in all things else-peculiar modes of doing things which have fastened themselves upon the mind, and which resist all ordinary means for their removal. These habits are be destructive of the best interests of the former, and yet they are persisted in from year to year. Long have farmers acknowledged the ruinque effects of over-cropping and superficial tillage : and vet as certainly as each successive year rolls around, so certainly do we find them pursuing the same system of over-cropping and the same ruinous methods of superficial tillage. To some more powerful means must we look then, for the aprooting of these habits, than to the mere convincing of the understanding. This means is found in the principle of association, which throwing together those having a common interest, with a view to improvement, awakens a spirit of investigation, and untrammeling the mind of its preconceived notions, opens it to the suggestions of reason and experi

But all such efforts, superadded to those of the many and valuable agricultural journals amongst us can achieve but little without the aid of association ated efforts among farmers themselves. The Kosta Affair

We are not at all surprised to learn that this affair, which has already created a prefound instant, from Yellow Fever and other diseases, sensation amongst the governments of Europe, is occupying the attention of our people and of the Administration in a degree commensurate nine deaths having occurred there during the with its importance. These very rules were transgressed in the first instance by Aus. ria herself, and the action of Capt. INGRAHAM was directed to their vindication. It is sheer onsense, then, to talk of basing a remon strance upon any such grounds; and it only remains for our government to hurl back the usult in the same terms it was offered.

Humiliation and Prayer. We call attention to the proclamation His Excellency, Governor Manning appointing Thursday, the 13th of October, as a day of fasting, humiliation and prayer. We trust that he day will be properly observed throughout the District-that our citizens will lay aside the garb of industry, and congregate at their respective places of worship to do homage to Him who is all -- powerful and gracious. As a people, we are in the enjoyment of many blesings for which to be thankful : and although we may not be enabled at all times to garner up the full reward of our toils, we are still highly favored with many very many kind disneastions which serve to make us prosperous and happy, and for which we should bow in thankfulness and humility before the Giver of all good.

Death of Col. McConnel.

We regret to see the announcement in th Yorkville papers, of the death of this useful and enterprising citizen and much respected gentleman, the senior partner of the extensive establishment of McConnell & Miller. He died on the morning of Monday, the 19th inst., aged 31 years. The Remedy says : " His death was quite sudden and unexpected, -he was out on Friday, though rather unwell, but nothing to excite serious apprehensions. On Saturday his disease took a more serious turn, and defied all medical aid. Thus has been cut off suddenly, in the prime of life, one of our most useful and respected citizens, leaving a young wife to whom he had been married but a short time, and a large circle of relatives and f riends to nourn his untimely death."

New Goods.

Our friends who intend to visit Columbia this Fall and Winter will take our word for it and call on Messrs. FALLS & KINARD for their supplics. These enterprising merchants have displayed much taste and liberality in crecting one of the handsomest buildings to be seen in the whole country, which will also be found to have been exercised, we are sure, in selecting the extensive stock of goods contained therein See advertisement

Our own merchants are now receiving their Fall supplies, and will soon be in readiness to meet the wants of their customers and the rest of mankind. In our columns will be seen the advertisement of Messrs T. J. DUNOVART & Co. They have opened out an extensive and beautiful assortment of "the wherewith to be adorn d." which, selected with the known skill and judgment of the senior partner, cannot fail to ok ase. Give them a call.

The Yellow fever has been gradually subsidng in New Orleans-the interments on last unday being only 16. The deaths in Mobile up to the 21s' inst., number 696. On Sunday ast there were only 9 interments from this cause. The disease is still raging with great violence at Vicksburg, Natchez and other places on the Mississippi, and in the interior of Louisiana. The total number of deaths in New Orleans from the 23d of May up to the 16th presents an aggregate of 10,440. The scourge eems to be gaining ground in Philadelphia-

SELECTED FOR THE STANDARD.

It is grievous to consider how many Christians there are (if such as they deserve the name of Christians) who come not to church at all, or very seldom, to pay that public duty and worship to God which religion calls for, and which a regard for the welfare of society equires. And even of those who do come, we find too many behaving themselves in a very careless manner, as if the worship of God was either not their business there, or not worth minding. Some sit all the time of prayers; or put themselves into such other lazy and ireverent postures, as show sufficiently that they have no sense of what they should be doing, nor any awe or reverence of the glorious Being they came to address. Others lay themselve to sleep, or trifle away their time in thinking of their worldly affairs. Others gase and stare about upon the congregation, or keep talking and whispering with their neighbors; and this is especially observed while the word of God is preached unto them; as if the Holy Scriptures, though given by inspiration of God, were no always to be heard, marked, learned and inwardly disested, that so they may answer the ends for which they were written, and become profitable for doctrine. for reproof, for correction or instruction in righteousness; or in one word, good to the use of edifying. With regard to such cold and careless worshippers, we may apply to the church, what Jacob said to Bethel Surely the Lord is in this place and they know not." They do not consider that they are in he immediate presence of God, and that by such a behaviour they affront him to his face, while they should be devoutly attending to his word, or praying to him. Now that such perons may be taught how to order their devotions better, and to worship God, not only with the pirit but with the understanding, too, the folowing directions are earnestly recor their consideration and practice :

First ; Have a conscientions regard to this d,ice of Selomon, (to whom God gave a wise ind understanding heart,) 'Keep thy foot when hou goest to the house of God,; and so look to every step you take in approach to it, that you ome into his more immediate presence with such contemplation, meditations and reflections n your mind, as will help up your soul unto Him, under an awful and just sense of his divine majesty and perfections; and with that humble and contrite spirit, which dependant creature and miserable sinners ought to have. Remember, that since God is a spirit, your worship of him must be spiritual and reasonable, sincere and pure. It must flow from a divine and heavenly frame of mind. But yet, as the whole man consists of body and soul together, you must glorify him in both, and consider their natural union and sympathy.-von must take such heed to every gesture and posture of your ody, as that they may be such as will best express your humility, reverence, and correctness and keep up suitable thoughts and affections

Secondly; In prayer, you must fix your thoughts wholly upon God, who alone heareth prayer you must disingage your mind from all worldly oucerns; you must keep your eyes from wandering, and your lips from disturbing others in

Thirdly ; In thanksgiving, imprint upon your eart a just and lively sense of God's goodness and loving kindness to yourself and to all men, since you will then feel how joyful and pleasant a thing it is to be thankful.

Fourthly; In hearing God's word, (whether is read or preached,) be not only attentive to it, but inwardly digest it, by applying to your own conscience its general admonitions, reproofs, or exhortations : and by treasuring up your memory its precepts and examples, its romises and threatenings, for the constant and right ordering of your conversation, Fifthly; In singing psalms, let your under tanding and spirit, direct and govern the melody of your voice, that your heart may be no less lled with grace, than your tongue with joy. Sept. 26th, 1853.

WARDLAY, WELKER

In the fevers and other complaints incident to southern and southwestern life, these Pills are unsurpassed in efficacy. They have cured Yellow Fever after every other remedy had failed. They have broken up the Ague and Bilious Fever in all their forms. They are thoroughly anti-bilious in their action, in whatever shape it may present itself—powerful for good, and yet innocent of injury.

If resorted to in time, this medicine will be found to answer all the requirements of the family and plantation. For Females at certain seasons there is none superior, if, indeed, there be any equal to it. Even for Children afflicted with any of the prevalent disorders, a trial of it will suffice to place it upon the most favorable footing in the estimation of all concerned.

WRIGHT'S INDIAN AND VEGETABLE PILLS. THIS highly valuable preparation, esteemed above every other article of the kind at the North has been latterly acquiring a like celebrity at the South and Southwest. It is a strictly original composition, and bases its claims upon its intrinsic merits, as adapted to the varied requirements of the human system. In fact, it has been justly styled "Nature's own Remedy," since the Pills, in their operation, answer precisely the indications which Nature points out. They possess the merit, also, of being entirely free from mercury, and all mineral admixture whatever.

THE MARRIAGE OF SIR JOHN SMITH THE AUTHOR OF "MARTHA HOPKINS."

Not a sigh was heard, nor a funeral note,
As the man to his bridal we hurried;
Not a woman discharged ber farewell groan,
On the spot where the fellow was married.
We instruct them just about eight at night,
Our faces pure intuing.
By the struggling moonbeam's misty light,
And the ges-lamp's steady burning.

No useless watch-chain covered his vest, Nor over-dressed we found him; Nor over-dressed we found him; But he looked like a gentleman wearing his best, With a view to his friends around him.

Few and short were the things we said, And we spoke not a word of sorrow, But we silently gazed on the man that was wed And we bitterly thought on the morrow. We thought, as we silently stood about,

With spite and anger dying, How the merest stranger had cut us out With only half our trying.

Lightly we'll talk of the fellow that's gone, And oft fer the past upbraid him; But little he'd rock if we let him live on, In the house where his wife conveyed him

But our heavy task at length was done, When the clock struck the hear for retiring And we heard the spiteful squib and pun The girls were sullenly firing.

Slowly and sadly we turned to go -We had struggled, and we were human; We shed not a tear, and we spoke not our woe But we left him alone with his woman.

ANECDOTE OF JUDGES.

There lived not many years ago, in the good State of Tennessee, rather an eccentric antieman who occupied the Judge's seat, in one of the wealthest circuits of the States Judge 8 ___, and I propose to give you a few anecdotes illustrative of his character. Upon one occasion there were two men raigned before Judge S-, charged with historbing the peace, &c. No. 1, upon the on of 'guilty or not guilty,' plead 'guilty,' to drunkenness. Judge S. 'Were you drunk, sir !'

Prisoner. 'Yes, sir.'

S. 'What sort of whiskey, sir ?'

P. 'New Whiskey, sir.'

S. 'What, right new whiskey, sir?' P. 'Yes sir, just warm from the still.'

S. 'So you got drunk on new whiskey, ight warm from the still, did you?'

P. 'Yes, sir.' S. 'Mr. Clerk, fine that man ten dollars nd imprisonment in the county jail 1 month.' No. 2, upon being arraigned, plead 'guilty,'

S. 'You were drunk, were you sir?' P. 'Yes sir.'

S. 'What did you get drunk on, sir ?' P. 'Brandy, sir.'

'What sort of brandy, sir?' P. 'Peach brandy, sir?' S. 'What, old peach brandy, sir ?'

P. 'Yes, sir.' 'How did you drink it, sir ?'

P. 'With a little honey, sir.' S. 'What sort of honey, sir ?'

P. 'Nice strained honey, sir.' S. So you got drunk on old peach brandy and nice strained honey, sir ?' P. 'Yes, sir.'

S. 'Mr. Clerk, fine that man one dime the Court would like a few of that, itself.' This same Judge S. had a very wild sor named Bob, who was constantly on a spree, and upon being brought up once before the

MARRIED IN SPITE OF THEIR TEETH. Old Governor Saltonstall, of Connecticut, in effecting the end he desired. Among other auecdotes told of him by the New London people, the place where he resided, is the following:

Of the various sects which have flourished for their day, and then ceased to exist, was one known as the Rogerites, so called from their founder, a John, Tom, or some other Rogers, who settled not far from the goodly town aforesaid. The distinguished tenet of the sect was their denial of the propriety and scriptuality of the form of marriage. "It is net good for man to be alone." This they believed, and also that one wife only should "cleave to her husband." But, then this should be a matter of agreement merely, and the couple should come together and live as man and wife, dispensing with all the forms of the marriage covenant. The old Governor used frequently to call upon Rogers and talk the matter over with him, and endeavor to convince him of the impropriety of living with Sarah as he did. But neither John or Sarah would give up argument. It was a missioner, that John Castles and wife Mary, matter of conscience with them; they were and wife Hoffman and wife Nancy, David Boyd and wife Eliza. John A. "Yes, certainly," replied John, "but my nscience will not permit me to marry her in the form of the world's people."

The ravings and rage of John and Sarah were of no avail-the knot was tied by the highest authority in the State.

KENTUCKY GALS .- The Kentucky States man relates a droll story of the recent election in that State : It appears from this that a young lady of the democratic faith, residing at a place called Jessamine, got the written promise of a young whig, that if she could she might prevent him from voting for Breckenridge for Congress. Pursuant to this agreement, on Sunday night before the election, after the young gentleman had retired to bed, she sent a servant to his room and got all the clothes of which he had disrobed himself; going then to his wardrobe she took all the rest of his clothing, and placed the whole in a secure place. At a very early hour on Monday morning, in company with another young lady, she placed herself on the stairs down which the anti-Breckenridge man must necessarily descend, if he descended at all and there the two sat all day, keeping their encaged bird secure until the closing of the polls in the evening, when they allowed him again to go at large. The consequence was that he did not vote, and Breckenridge's majority was increased by one.

It was a trial of modesty, in which the gent had the advantage. He ought, however, to have bounced out just as a moral experiment.

EDITORS :- Having recently had occasion to lodge in your town, our lot has been cast with our friend of the Planters' and Mechanics' Hotel, and we cannot omit expressing publicly our gratification at the manner in which his house is managed, and the effort he used to promote the comfort of those who call n him. We have always found his table bountifully supplied with the best fare to be found in the market, and prepared in such a manner s would delight the palate of the most fastidious. His rooms are always in good order, and well furnished. His servants are dutiful and attentive; and to crown all, the host himself s ever present to anticipate your slightest want and to render your condition as pleasant as pos sible. We have no where found so good a c commodations; and to those who, like ourselves, are plain farmers, the Planters' & Mechanics' is the house to be preferred. In attention to horses, a matter which we farmers look to, our friend Lerson sees that nothing is wanting. He knows how to have them cared for, and sees that it is done.

To those of our friends who may have to lodge in Chester, we would recommend a trial of the hospitality of this House : for we believe that a better House is not to be found in the country. We would not have our readers to understand us as classing the Doctor and his Sarsaparilla with Burnum and Jenny Lind, because all who spend their dollar for a bottle of Bull's Sarsaparilla will get its equivalent; and we have heard it slily hinted, that many after hearing the divine Jenny, and finding their pockets mirus from ten to (wenty dollars, thought it was paying pretty dear for the winstra. NOTICE TO FEMALES.

John Bull's Sarsaparilla is one of the greatest female medicines now in existence. In those numerous eases where the constitution is debilitated, the nervous energy is lessened, when the efforts of nature are weak and deficient, or are profuse and overwrought, when the face is pale and coloriess, the strength feeble and yielding, the spirit troubled and depressed, the health broken, mind shaken, and, consequently, the happiness destroyed, then Bull's Sarsaparilla is a sovereign remedy. It assists Nature in the performance of her duty, braces the whole system, renews permanently the natural energies, removes obstructions, checks excesses, creates pure and healthy blood, and imparts health and happiness. Were lades, generally, to adopt the use of this medicibe, we would see far less suffering, disease and unhappiness, among them, than now exists; health would take the place of should have smiles instead of teath, and sufficiency. A BEAUTIFUL CLEAR SKIN. A BEAUTIFUL CLEAR SKIN.

How we all admire a clear, beautiful, white skin and a rosy colored cheek! How often do we see persons not possessing this desideratum, "so devoutly to be wished," resorting to cosmetics, lotions, washes, paints, and coloring materials, to restore them to a semblance of what disease has deprived them of, and that too, with great injury to the skin. Buil's Sarsaparilla is the best cosmetic known. It beautifies the skin by removing every particle of morbid and diseased matter from the blood, making it pure, healthy, and vigorous, giving activity to every minute vessel, and changing the yellow and dark countenance to the bloom and freshness of youth. Ladies, abandon the use of paints and mixtures and use Buil's Sarsaparilla, the only effectual remedy. "A word to the wise is sufficient," and a hint is enough for the ladies.

We earnestly invite all persons who are suffering with any of "the life that fiesh is heir to," to call on Dr. John Bull's Agant, and get a copy of Bull's Family Journal, Saatis; and for the sake of humanity, we hope that a single individual will not be found, unwilling to give Bull's Sarsaparilla a rana, after reading, and recollecting, at the same time, that it is impossible for the Dector to publish the tenth part of the number of certificates of astounding curse performed by his Sarsaparilla. The amount of testimony voluntarily showered on Dr. Bull's Sarsaparilla, from well known and distinguished individuals, both in public and private life, has been perfectly overwhelming, ILT-Dr. John Bull's Principal Office: West side Fifth street, first door below Main, Louisville, Ky.

AGUE AND FEVER—GREAT CURE.—I hereby certify, that for three years I had Ague and Fover of the most violent, description. I had several Physicians, took large quantities of Quinine, Mercury, and I believe all the Tonics advertised, but all without any permanent relief. At last I tried "Curter's Spanish Mixture," two bottles of which effectually cured me, and I amhappy to say I have had neither Chills or Fevers since. I consider it the best Tonic in the world, and the only medicine that over reached my case. medicine that ever reached my case.

Holloway's Ointment.

A most miracuolus cure of Bad Legs, after 43 years' suffering. Extract of a letter from Mr. William Galpin, of 70 St. Mary's street, Weymouth, dated May 15th, 1851.

Extract of a letter from Mr. William Galpin, of 70 St. Mary's street. Weymouth, dated May 15th, 1851. To Professor Holloway.

Sin: At the age of 18 my wife (who is now 61) caught a violent cold, which settled in her legs, and ever since that time they have been more or less sore, and greatly inflamed. Her agonies were distracting, and for months tegether she was deprived entirely of rest and sleep. Every remedy that medical men advised was tried, but without effect; her health suffered severely, and the state of her legs was terrible. I had often read your advertisements, and advised her to try your Pills and Ointment; and, as a last resource, after every other remedy had proved useless, she consented to do so. She commenced six weeks age, and strange to relate, is now in good health. Her legs are painless, without seam orsear, and her sleep sound and undisturbed. Could you have witnessed the sufferings of my wife during the last 43 years, and contrast them with her present enjoyment of health, you would indeed feel delighted in having been the means of so greatly alleviating the sufferings of a fellow creature.

Sin: I suffered for a period of thirty years from a bad leg, the result of two or three different accidents at Gas Works, accompanied by scorbutic symptoms. I had recourse to a variety of medical advice, without deriving any benefit, and was even fold that the leg must be amputated, yet in opposition to that opinion, your Pills and Ointment have effected a complete cure in so short a time that few who had not witnessed it would credit the fact.

Dean Sir: My. wife had suffered from Bad Breast for more than six months, and during the whole period had the best medical attendance, but all to no use Having before healed an awful wound in my own leg by your unrivalled medicine, I determined again to use your Pills and Ointment, and therefore gave threm a trial in her case, and fortunate it was I did so, for in less than a month a perfect cure was effected, and the benefit that various other branches of my family have derived from their use is really astonishing. I now strongly recommend them to all my friends.

The Best Female Medicine Known The Best Female Medicine Known.

The peculiar maladies to which females are striject, commonly produce great bodily exhaustion, accompanied by a depressed and often gloomy state of mind. As the system declines in strength, there is a loss of nervous power, and this very naturally impairs the energy of the mind and disturbs the equanimity of the temper. Every candid woman who has suffered from female complaints will admit this to be the mourful truth. Now, to obtain relief, it is only necessary to stop the tendeucy to depletion and debility. This its done by renewing that fountain of health and strength, the BLOOD, and no medicine accomplishes this desirable result so speedily and complete as "Dr. Cuysott's Improved Extract of Yellow Duck and Sasaparilla.

Ladies of pule complexion and consumptive habits, and such as are debilitated by those obstructions which females are liable to, are restored, by the use of a bottle or two, to bloom and to vigor.

RUTLEDGE, Granger County, Tenn, April 27, 1852.

J. D. PARK, Esq., Cincinnati, O.—Dear Sirr.—'12 gives me great satisfaction to add my testimony in favor of "Dr. Gnysott's Extract of Yellow Dock and Sareaparilla," to that of the numerous and highly respectable persons who have been benefited by the medicine.

My wife has been suffering for the space of nearly five years with Scrofula and Cancer, which, I think, found its origin in the derangements of the system peculiar to her sex, while in the mean time she was under the care of the most eminent Physicians in this section of country, without deriving any material aid from their prescriptions.

Upon the recommendation of Dr. Coukes, one of our Physicians, who had seen the medicine used with happy effect, I obtained of your Agents here, "Messrs, kice & McFarland," one bottle of "Dr. Guysott's Extract of Yellow Dock and Sarsaparilla," and as my wife found relief from that bottle, I bought some six bottles, which she has taken with the most astonishing benefit, for I am pleased to say it has entirely cured her, for she has entirely recovered from her illness, and the Scrofula and Cancer are cured sound and well.

Mr. John D. Park—Denr Sir:—Dr. Guyactt's Yellow Dock and Sarsaparilla is performing some astonishing cures in this place. A Mr. S. B. Strickland has just informed me that one of his children has been entirely cured of a very severe case of Scrofula by the use of only one bottle. He had tried almost overy thing that the Doctors had prescribed, but all of no avail, as the child continued getting worse. The sorva are now all healed up and the child apparently well, which is justly ascribed to the use of the Yellow Dock and Sarsaparilla. aparilla. Signed, Yours, truly, R. A. BEAL.

CAN BE EFFECTUALLY CURED BY DR. HOOFLAND'S Celebrated German Bitters, PREPARED BY

Their power over the above diseases is not excelled, if equalled, by any other preparation in the United States, as the cures attest, in many cases after skilful physicians had failed.

These Bittors are worthy the attention of invalids. Possessing great virtues in the rectification of diseases of the Liver and lesser glands, exercising the most searching powers in weakness and affections of the digestive organs, they are, withal, safe, certain and pleasant.

READ AND BE CONVINCED. The "Philadelphia Saturday Guzette," says of Dr. Hoofand's German Bitters:

"It is seldom that we recommend what are termed Patent Medicines, to the confidence and patronage of our readers; and therefore when we recommend Dr. Hoofand's German Bitters, we wish it to be distinctly understood that we are not sperking of the mostrums of the day, that are noised about for a brief period and then forgotten after they have done their guilty race of mischief, but of a medicina long established, universally prized, and which has met the hearty approval of the faculty itself."

"Scort's Werketty." said, Aug. 25:

"SCOTT'S WERKLY," said, Aug. 25:—

"Dr. HOOPLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS, manufactured by Dr. Jackson, are now rocommended by some of the most prominent members of the faculty as an article of much efficacy in cases of female weakness. Persons of debilitated constitutions will find those Bitters advantageous to their health, as we know from experience the salutary effect they have spon weak systems."

MORE EVIDENCE. . J. G. Moore, Esq., of the Daily News, said, October Slat :- We are trying this reasoned medicine for a stubborn disease of the bowels, and can with treth testify to its emeasy. We have taken the contents of two bottles, and we have derived more benefit from the experiment than we derived previously from years of allopathic treat-ment at the hands of our first physicians." Hen. C. D. Hineline, Mayor of the City of Camden, N. L. said.

Hon. C. D. Hineline, Mayor of the City of Camden, N. J., says:

"Hoo. T. And's German Butters.—We have seen many finitering notices of this medicine, and the source from which they came induced us to make inquiry respecting its merits. From inquiry we were persuaded to use it, and must say we found it specific in its action upon diseases of the liver and digestive organs, and the powerful influence it exerts upon nervous prostration is really surprising. It calmus and strengthers the nerves, bringing them. Into a state of repose, making aleoprefreshing.

If this medicine was more generally used, we are satisfied there would be less sickness, as from the stomesch, liver and nervous system, the great unajority of real and imaginary diseases emanste. Have them in a healthy condition and you can bild despace to epidemics generally. This extraordinary medicine we would advise our firends who can at all indispused to give a trial—it will recommend itself. It should in fact, be in every facility. No other medicine can produce such evidences of merit.
